

Kristi Richards

St. George Stormwater Manager

Kristi Richards was introduced to the stormwater program in 2008 while working for Riverton City, where she developed a passion for protecting water resources and promoting sustainable practices. After relocating to southern Utah, Kristi joined St. George City's Building Department before transitioning to the Public Works Department. For the past five years, she has served as the Stormwater Manager, playing a pivotal role in managing the city's stormwater program and ensuring environmental compliance.

In her role, Kristi oversees St. George's Municipal Separate Storm Sewer System (MS4) program, ensuring compliance with local, state, and federal regulations. Kristi collaborates closely with stakeholders to address environmental challenges while meeting the community's growth and development needs.
